New exclusive discount from DHAT Elite Training Experience

Dalvi Humzah Aesthetic Training (DHAT) is now offering delegates who attend its session at the Elite Training Experience a 10% discount voucher for TSK Laboratory, and Cosmetic Digital. The TSK voucher, is to be redeemed at the Aesthetics Conference and Exhibition (ACE) 2018 – where the Elite Training Experience will take place – and can be used on all TSK products. The Cosmetic Digital voucher can be used against its Digital Marketing course. TSK is best known for its array of needle products, including the The INVISIBLE NEEDLE, which is said by TSK to be the thinnest needle available to date. A new sponsor has also been announced for ACE 2018. Schuco International will hold a one hour Masterclass on the Princess dermal filler range. The session will feature a panel of leading UK experts, who will be exclusively unveiling and demonstrating latest innovations within the range. The Masterclass promises to have an engaging and interactive format with a mixture of informative presentations, expert panel Q&As and a live injection demonstration. ACE 2018 will take place at the Business Design Centre on April 27 and 28.

Skincare

Dr Levy introduces new antiageing mask

Cosmeceutical brand Dr Levy Switzerland has added the R3 Cell Matrix Mask (Restore, Replenish, Restructure) to its Intense Stem Cell line. The formula is a multi-vitamin A+C+E+B3, retinol, antioxidant and concentrated hyaluronic acid complex, which aims to help the skin to reinforce its natural protective and nutritive eco-system, helping its mother cells fully unleash their rejuvenating collagen-producing powers. The company claims the product will produce more radiant, silky soft and visibly restored skin that feels firmer and appears more unified.

"The R3 Cell Matrix Mask is the latest product in our series and was invented to be used alongside the other products within the line," said its creator, dermatologist Dr Phillip Levy. He added, "Our ingredients activate the sirtuin protein family, so you get a very deep epigenetic effect on antiageing in addition to the hydration, glow and antioxidants. Our three aims are to restore, replenish and restructure so that we can basically 'rescue' skin."

Training

AlumierMD launches training academy

Skincare developer AlumierMD will provide product education at a new, permanent training facility in Bolton.

At the new facility, AlumierMD will hold a two-day professional training course, which comprises theory on homecare products on day one, and chemical peel training on day two; in March this will be extended to three days. Delegates will learn detailed information about the AlumierMD product range, including theory on the homecare and professional products, and will receive chemical peel training and knowledge. The company will also hold a one-day advanced chemical peel training course at the facility. AlumierMD states that this course will explore the art of modern day peeling and will provide detailed chemical knowledge and correct protocols. Product and education specialist Gillian Rafferty will be the permanent trainer at the Bolton venue, and the company says that each course will be CPD verified and have up to 15 delegates. "We opened a permanent training academy to hold our professional and advanced training, which we can invite different clinics throughout the year to, to ensure they have the best knowledge and understanding of our brand," said Samantha Summerfield, marketing and events manager at AlumierMD. She added, "We are excited to launch this to our clients as we feel that education is key. The Bolton venue will allow us to conduct training all year round." Training dates have been confirmed until November this year, and can be viewed on the AlumierMD website.
